General vision about football game

- My idea of football is very simple. It starts from the precise point that Real Madrid and Barcelona are only two. The rest are teams that have to do another type of football. It is clear that the coach must adapt to the players he has available and reason on technical tactical aspects, but ultimately, as I see it, the first rule is to not concede goals. Based on the quality of the team that I manage I focus a lot on attack options but with attention to the defense. My focus on the defensive phase is the main aspect of my vision of the game. Because if you are 0-0 to win the game you need a goal, while if you are losing 1-0 to win you need 2 goals. I do not think it's smart to think that a game is won by scoring many goals, you win a game with the right balance between the attacking game and the defensive game.
